Cook like Chef Roy Choi

Chef Roy Choi was creative and determined about how he mixed the different types of food he loved to make new dishes and flavors. If you could make any type of food, what would you make? Where have you eaten this food before? What do you like about the flavor of this food? What ingredients would you use, including spices and sauces? Who would you cook for and where would you serve your food? Write at least five sentences in response to this prompt.

______________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________